INTERNATIONAL

Tim with V.P. Field Ministry, Greg Gripentrog in Miami.

The Will of God: a journey not a destination.

For the past four months, we (that includes you, too) have been praying that God would make it clear to us whether we should go to Argentina or not. Well, He made it clear. We are not going to Argentina. The 23rd of March we met in Miami with the team leader. The team is shifting their focus specifically towards equipping Latin Americans to go to the mission field. It is a wonderful ministry but not the one we believe we have been equipped for.

10-SECOND UPDATE

- We are not going to Argentina.
- New options are Mexico, Colombia, or Brazil.
- Internship begins June 16.

So now what? Good question. We have been given three other Latin American countries as options: Mexico, Brazil, and Colombia. We have met the team leaders from each of those countries and could get excited about any of them. Hopefully next letter we will have more specifics. (Of course we've been saying that for months.) But don't worry... we're kind of getting used to living in limbo. The trick is to pack light, pray heavy, and stay flexible.

For Christ and His kingdom,

Tim & Annette
